

DIAGRAM H

The broken line from the head to the circle is the vertebrae. From the circle to the triangle is the backbone. If a break occurs anywhere along this line the deer will go down and stay there. It may not die instantly but will never get on its feet again.

The circled area at the shoulder is the great nerve center. A deer hit within this area will also go down for keeps. The solid black area is the heart, a sure kill shot. A head shot is also sure, sudden death.
